VON MALTZAN HELPED HEAL WAR WOUNDS

Eulogies of German Ambassador to U. S. Indicate Changed Feeling
WON TRUST OF AMERICA
Put Suspicion at Rest by Honesty and Straightforward Dealing

Washington—Eulogies of the death of the German ambassador, Baron von Maltzan, indicate more eloquently than anything else the changed attitude of the United States toward Germany in the ten years that have elapsed since the outbreak of war.

The German ambassador came here in an atmosphere which had by no means been cleared of the feeling of suspicion and resentment engendered by Count von Bernstorff. The German embassy which had since the neutrality days been much ostracized as the Russian embassy today was not a place to which official Washington relished invitations. Baron von Maltzan knew that the basis of ill-feeling was not so much war hate as lack of confidence. Washington had mistrusted the German embassy of 1914 and had come to look upon the trickery of its military and naval attaches as an abuse of neutrality which the exigencies of war did not excuse.

The baron was not the first ambassador to follow the resumption of diplomatic relations but he made the greatest strides toward healing the old sores. His method was simple—he opened his home to the officials and diplomats of Washington and his personality was such that all memory of the arrogance and superiority complex which had characterized the embassy of 1914 was erased.

WAR CAREER. Von Maltzan is no sense cringing or toadyed to Americans. He was courteous to everybody and was as careful a diplomat as official Washington has ever had. But even this would not have sufficed to win him the place he occupied when he died. He had achieved something which few diplomats accomplish—he had the absolute confidence of the American government.

To win confidence, Baron von Maltzan followed a formula of honesty and straightforward dealing. If he gave his word on behalf of his government, it was a word that nobody doubted. He knew that the Berlin government was behind him. But best of all, the German government demonstrated time and time again that its word could be relied upon. Slowly, but surely, America regained her faith in Germany. Today due to the skill with which Baron von Maltzan conducted the diplomatic relations here, the Germans stand on an equality with all other nations insofar as the value of pledged word is concerned.

All this has happened in ten years. War hate is no longer rampant and official Washington accepted Germany in her former place as a great power long before the league of nations gave Germany a permanent seat on the council at Geneva. To the personality of Baron von Maltzan, his good judgment, his tact and his honesty may this good result be attributed. As Secretary of State Kellogg said in his eulogy, Baron von Maltzan's place will be hard to fill.

RHINELANDER FARMER

SHOT BY CRAZED MAN

Rhineland—(AP)—Stricken with a sudden attack of insanity, John Biederman, an employee of the Honchert, near Rhineland, invaded the dining room of the resort Sunday night firing into the crowd with two revolvers, killing one. Another narrowly escaped death when grazed with a bullet.

John Rode, a farmer from the Sugar Creek district near here, died almost instantly from the gunfire. Herman Schroeder of Rhineland, sprang at Biederman and a bullet grazed his head. Biederman was overpowered and taken to the county jail here.

SUB QUARTERBACK AT MICHIGAN NOT ELIGIBLE

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(AP)—Vic Domhoff, substitute quarterback of the Michigan football team for two years, is not eligible for the team this season. E. E. Wieman, chairman of the board of coaches, announced. Domhoff is ruled out by a statute of the Western Conference which provides that if an athlete leaves school during a semester and later returns he is ineligible until he has been in school six calendar months.

Charge Former Dry Agent Active In British Waters

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Likelihood of a new international complication, arising out of America's sea patrol against rum runners, has developed in the Bahama Islands as a result of the arrest of Charles H. Nestle, a former American prohibition agent, for alleged unauthorized participation in the seizure of a rum smuggler by the United States Coast guard in British waters.

Nestle, who is accused of not having been a member of the coast guard crew at the time of the capture, was charged by the rum vessel's crew with having appropriated a portion of the liquor cargo and of having had some in his possession at the time of his arrest. The rum runner is said to be an American ship.

The seizure, according to the British authorities, took place within the three mile territorial limit of British waters. Coast guard officials in Florida, however, claimed to be out of the limited waters.

A report of Nestle's arrest was forwarded to the Washington government by the American consul at Nassau. It said that the island's governor had sent a magistrate to Simini to give him a hearing.

Nestle, who forfeited his bail before being sentenced last year on two American federal charges, left his home at Miami, Fla., and now is said to live on one of the Bahama keys, having appropriated a portion of the liquor cargo and of having had some in his possession at the time of his arrest. The rum runner is said to be an American ship.

The seizure, according to the British authorities, took place within the three mile territorial limit of British waters. Coast guard officials in Florida, however, claimed to be out of the limited waters.

FRENCH COPS HUNTING FOR SACCO GROUP

Both Attempts to Wreck Legionnaires' Train Prevented by Watchmen

Nice, France—(AP)—Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers were believed by police Monday to have been behind two attempts to wreck trains in the Riviera. The first attempt was made at the time the American legion good-will train was enroute here from Paris.

There was no clue to the persons who planted the bomb that wrecked 15 yards of track near Golfe-Juan Saturday midnight some hours before the legion train was due, but the authorities are pressing their investigation all along the coast, from Marseilles to Mentone.

The second attempt was made at La Bocca, near Cannes, where a bomb, which failed to explode, was planted. Prompt work by the track inspection force averted disaster in both cases.

FIND ROCK FILE

Police, who investigated the finding of a pile of boulders on the railroad track near Monte Carlo, decided that they were not placed there intentionally but had rolled down the hillside after a rain. When the pile of rocks was first discovered it was believed that they had some connection with the bomb explosion.

The legionnaires, headed by Commander Howard P. Savage and Commander-elect E. E. Spafford, knew nothing of the attempts against them until after their arrival.

The incident recalls the explosion of a bomb in the gardens of the American consulate here in July, reportedly in connection with Sacco-Vanzetti case. As in the present instance no one was injured.

FORBIDS SPECIAL JUDICIAL ELECTION

Injunction Stops Plans to Hold Election Oct. 20 in Forest-co

Crandon—(AP)—Judge W. B. Quinn of Marinette, has issued an injunction restraining W. E. Mountain, county clerk of Forest-co, from proceeding with preparations to hold an election of county judge following the filing of a petition to recall county Judge S. J. Conway. A hearing on the matter will be held Oct. 20.

The injunction was obtained by Attorney John C. Miller, representing the Forest-co jurist. The case is the first test of the law passed by the last legislature and approved in a state referendum which provides that a judge may be recalled upon petition bearing a certain percentage of signatures of qualified electors.

BEARS 661 SIGNATURES

Judge Conway took office January, 1926. The election under the present law would be held between 40 and 45 days from the filing of the petition, which contained 661 names.

The complaint upon which the restraining order was issued states that the recall amendment of the state constitution was adopted at the last session of the legislature and that it is under this amendment that the petitioners are attempting to proceed; that the statute can be of no effect and cannot be used until the legislature passes some act to define the method of procedure under the law; that some of the signatures were not qualified electors of Forest-co; and that the election would cost the county $5,000 and would be void if held.

Hongkong—(AP)—The Exchange Telegraph here announces receipt of a report that 5,000 persons perished when an immense tidal wave and typhoon struck Yeungkong, Kwangtung province, 150 miles southwest of this city on Sept. 10. Twenty thousand homes were damaged and 400 junks and sampans destroyed, the report said. The total loss is estimated at $1,000,000.

SET PETERSON MURDER TRIAL FOR OCT. 10

Not Guilty Plea Is Entered for Alleged Slayer of Foley Girl

Milwaukee—(AP)—A court battle in an attempt to free Elmer Peterson, Melrose Park, held on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of Janet Foley, was assured Monday when he pleaded not guilty in district court. Peterson's preliminary examination was continued until Oct. 10, on the request of the defense counsel, William B. Rubin, who seeks additional time to prepare his case.

A crowded courtroom heard the formalities dispensed with before Judge George E. Page, who continued the preliminary hearing by prearrangement with state and defense counsel until Oct. 10.

Seated far back in the court room between two married sisters and her mother was Kathryn Foley, who, Peterson claims, is his wife. It was for the purpose of demanding that she return to him that Peterson called at the Foley home Tuesday night and engaged in the quarrel with the family that culminated in the double shooting and his flight.

MISS FOLEY IN COURT

Miss Foley was composed throughout the brief hearing except for a brief moment when she apparently thought she was to be called to the witness stand to confront the man she admitted living with for five days in Chicago but now denounces as "insane."

Peterson's attorney has demanded the preliminary hearing to give him an opportunity to question Miss Foley, who is expected to be the state's principal witness. Peterson maintains he does not remember shooting the girl and claims he shot to protect himself from the attacks of the family.

WIFE MAY SUCCEED DUVALL AS MAYOR

Is Named Indianapolis Controller to Be in Line for Husband's Office

Indianapolis—(AP)—Mrs. John L. Duvall, wife of the Indianapolis mayor, was named city controller Monday, succeeding Claude F. Johnson who had held the position since Sept. 1. Johnson, who was chief of police, before being made city controller was made head of the city detective department.

Mayor Duvall was found guilty last week of violating the corrupt practices act. He was sentenced to thirty days imprisonment and denied the right to hold public office for four years. In event of Duvall's resignation Mrs. Duvall, as city controller would become the city's chief executive.

Monday's move paved the way for Mrs. Duvall to become the first woman mayor Indianapolis has had. She is the first woman to become city controller in the city's history.

SHOOTS GIRL AFTER HIS DAUGHTER'S ELOPEMENT

New York—(AP)—A seven-year-old girl was shot dead by a 65-year-old man as she fled in revenge for the elopement of his daughter, the police allege. The girl, Angeline Constance, was asleep in her bed at her home in E. 15th-st when she was instantly killed by a shotgun discharged, according to the police, by Biaggio Arsenio who escaped over hot-tops. Relatives told the police that Arsenio was enraged over the recent elopement of his daughter with a young man introduced by the slain child's parents. The weapon was found in the girl's bedroom.

Youth Shoots Girl For Her Promise To Mother

Chicago—(AP)—Frank Schlieben, 18, called the "tough kid" of his neighborhood is being held for the slaying of 16 year old Stephanie Celac—a girl who loved to dance and whose dead body, a bullet through the heart, was found on a deserted street corner Sunday.

Schlieben, the police said, confessed shooting the girl, using a pistol which he had stolen from his mother's car, which a few hours before the girl's mother had threatened to commit suicide because of the late hours Stephanie had been keeping. Schlieben, however, insisted the shooting was an accident.

"She dared me to shoot her," the youth said. "I pointed it to scare her. The trigger must have caught on something."

Police learned that Mrs. Celac had pleaded with "Stiffie" to stop going to dances at last hours, and especially

AMERICAN MOTHERS OF WAR VETERANS OUTLINES PROGRAM

Will Meet Tuesday at Milwaukee; to Discuss Wider Support of Americanization

Milwaukee.—(P)—Expansion of a program to establish homes near government hospitals for the benefit of visiting relatives of war veterans and increased support of Americanization, will be principal topics of discussion when American War Mothers' open their annual convention here Tuesday.

Special trains bringing the first large delegations to the convention arrived in Milwaukee Monday. More than 125 members of the organization from western states, detained shortly after noon, while three hours later a train from the eastern states brought almost as large a number. By the time the convention officially opens Tuesday, it is expected that 2,000 War Mothers will be in attendance.

Organized ten years ago as the sequel to a response on the part of Indiana women to the government's call for conservation during the war months, the organization has grown to national proportions. It is composed of mothers of World war veterans. Brought together through mutual sacrifices, it was suggested that the mothers band together for future cooperative efforts, the movement receiving the sanction of the national government at Washington.

At the close of the war, while the organization was still young, being largely restricted to Indiana and surrounding states, it was decided to expand in an effort to promote the fraternal spirit among the mothers of soldiers; to establish memorials; preserve historical records of the war; and afford relief from suffering incident to the war, through work at various government hospitals. Such work has been carried on by the War Mothers and the membership has gradually grown.

TWO MAIN THEMES
While principal topics of discussion will center about Americanization, considerable time will be devoted to consideration of plans for the establishment of more homes for relatives of war veterans, to be located near government hospitals, according to Mrs. Thomas Spence, Milwaukee, general chairman of the convention committee.

The first home, in Denver, has been in operation a short time and, Mrs. Spence said, has proven very successful. Mothers, wives and sisters of patients in the Fitzsimons hospital there are privileged to stay at the home while visiting the veterans, or remaining near them during treatment.

An Americanization program will be presented for the War Mothers during the first evening of the convention. Dancers and singers in the staff of the Dairy Farmer, a monthly magazine published at Des Moines, Iowa, according to an announcement in the September issue of that periodical. Mr. Jamison is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where he received a master's degree in journalism and economics.

According to the announcement, Mr. Jamison was associated with his father, while on the farm, in raising a herd of 70 pure-bred Guernseys. One year, when in charge of a county show herd at the state fair, he took more than $250 in prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Minker and son, Walter, Jr., and daughter Louise, of Milwaukee were Appleton visitors Sunday.

During the afternoon of the same day, the War Mothers will dedicate a group of 50 trees at the National Soldiers' home in honor of service men who lost their lives in war.

WISCONSIN SURGEONS WILL ATTEND MEETING

Wisconsin doctors in the American College of Surgeons will meet in Madison Nov. 9 and 10, according to information received here. Appleton men in the college are Dr. L. V. Marshall, Dr. J. B. MacLaren, Dr. A. E. Rector, and Dr. E. H. Brooks.

The program calls for a 2-day meeting of all fellows of the college in Wisconsin and surrounding states. One of the sessions probably will be open to laymen and a prominent surgeon will speak.

Headquarters for the convention will be at the Hotel Lorraine in Madison. Clinics will be held in the hospitals of Madison on the mornings of the two days.

The American College of Surgeons, which has members in the United States, Canada and South America, has been the outstanding organization of the country for the improvement of hospital personnel, hospital records, and hospital technique.

4,000 MARCH IN HOLY NAME PARADE

Reelect Officers of Diocesan Union at Rally in Manitowoc

Despite a drizzling rain, more than 4,000 men marched to the time of 15 bands Sunday at the Holy Name rally of the Green Bay diocese at Manitowoc.

The pontifical field mass by the Rt. Rev. Paul R. Rhode, bishop of the Green Bay diocese, was held at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's orphan asylum. About 300 children sang at 4 o'clock mass. The Rev. F. N. Nistroy of Kimberly, delivered the sermon which was transmitted over the microphone and power magnifier so everyone could hear. Quin O'Brien, Chicago attorney, spoke at a late meeting.

Oshkosh was chosen as the meeting place for 1928. Phil Sheridan, Green Bay, was elected president of the Holy Name societies of the Green Bay diocese; P. J. Weber, Menasha secretary and treasurer; and the Rev. William Kernan, Green Bay, spiritual adviser.

Membership of the society of the diocese totals almost 9,000 according to Gustave Keller, Appleton. Before the rally at Oshkosh in 1928 membership is expected to be raised to 10,000.

FORMER APPLETON MAN ON STAFF OF MAGAZINE

Howard E. Jamison, who was born and raised on a 240-acre farm near Appleton, has been engaged as a writer on the editorial staff of The Dairy Farmer, a monthly magazine published at Des Moines, Iowa, according to an announcement in the September issue of that periodical. Mr. Jamison is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where he received a master's degree in journalism and economics.

According to the announcement, Mr. Jamison was associated with his father, while on the farm, in raising a herd of 70 pure-bred Guernseys. One year, when in charge of a county show herd at the state fair, he took more than $250 in prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Minker and son, Walter, Jr., and daughter Louise, of Milwaukee were Appleton visitors Sunday.

During the afternoon of the same day, the War Mothers will dedicate a group of 50 trees at the National Soldiers' home in honor of service men who lost their lives in war.

INCREASE IS SHOWN IN AUTO ASSESSMENT

Total Assessed Value of Automobiles in City Now Placed at $1,190,500

A change in the system of gathering information on the number of automobiles in the city will result in additional tax collections of about $2,200, according to George E. Peotter, city assessor.

The new system was devised by Mr. Peotter after a year in office during which time he determined the flaws in the old system. Under the old plan a letter with card enclosed was mailed to each person owning an automobile. The card, which bore a number of printed questions, was to be filled out, stamped, and mailed to the assessor. Due to the fact that many of the people did not have a stamp available at the time they received the letter, the card often was laid aside and later misplaced. When the assessor did not receive the return card he would send a "followup" notice and if he received no answer to that letter, would assess the automobile according to information supplied by automobile dealers who sold the car.

Under the new plan a double postcard is sent to the automobile owner, with the return card already stamped and addressed to the assessor.

One of the reasons for the increase in the number of automobiles assessed is that the secretary of state has insisted on assessment of more automobiles. Bearing such instructions in mind, Mr. Peotter included the 1915 and 1916 model automobiles in the assessment and although they did not cause much of a jump in the total valuation, they did lower the average city assessment of automobiles.

The city assessor filed assessments on 712 more automobiles this year than last, bringing the total assessed value of automobiles in the city up to $1,190,500, an increase of $73,400. If the tax rate is fixed at $30 per $1,000 assessed valuation, the collections by the city on automobiles alone will amount to $2,202 more than last year. The average assessment of automobiles in Appleton this year is $296. Last year the figure was $334 and in 1925 it was exactly $300.

LETTER GOLF

A GOOD FOUR
From FATHER to MOTHER doesn't look to be a hard one, but it has its points. Far is four. The answer is printed on page 7.

THE RULES
1. The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it with a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOV, HEV, HEN.
2. You can change only one letter at a time.
3. You must have a complete word, common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4. The order of letters cannot be changed.

NEW FIRE HYDRANTS INSTALLED BY CITY

Extension of Improved Property Limits Results in Addition to Fire Protection

Twenty-three new fire hydrants were installed in the city during the past year, according to the list recently compiled by the Appleton water department. This is about the same number as installed last year, according to George P. McGillan, fire chief and about the average number installed each year to meet the requirement caused by the extension of property.

Following is a list of the locations of the new hydrants: Pierce park, Nevada-st, at the first bend of Ell-st; Nevada-st, at the end of the street; Lawrence-st, at the end of the court; Jackson-st, 300 feet north of the bridge; S. Pierce-ave at Prospect-ave; S. Pierce-ave at Third-st; S. Pierce-ave at Fourth-st; Washington-st, 444 feet west on N. Superior-st; S. Mason-st 200 feet south of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks; S. Mason-st, 50 feet north of the C. and N. W. railroad tracks; N. Division-st, 270 feet north of Levist; N. Division-st, at Parkway-blvd; N. Alvin-st, 235 feet south of Parkway-blvd; W. Wisconsin-ave, at N. Bennett-st; N. Mason-st at W. Spring-st; N. Mason-st at W. Commercial-st; N. Mason-st at W. Wisconsin-ave; E. South-st at Brookway; S. Summit-st at W. Prospect-ave; S. Summit-st, 300 feet south of W. Fourth-st; S. Spruce-st, at W. College-ave.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kuypers, of De Pere, Mrs. Theodore Meeuwyn, Oconto, and Mr. Edward Reinhard De Pere, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Keller Sunday evening.

UNVEIL 2 MONUMENTS TO FARMERS' LEADER

Founder of Cheese Producers' Federation Will Be Honored at Plymouth

Plymouth.—(P)—Tribute to the organizer of the cooperative cheese movement in Wisconsin will be paid by state leaders, men prominent in political affairs and officials of the Wisconsin Cheese Producers Federation when tablets in honor of Henry Krumrey are soon unveiled here and at Madison.

The Plymouth tablet, which is to be placed upon a boulder selected from a Greenbush farm, will cite the contributions Mr. Krumrey made to the cheese industry during his lifetime.

Appropriate ceremonies will accompany the unveiling of the tablet here. At Madison, where a similar tablet will be placed, United States Senator John J. Blaine and Prof. Theodore Macklin of the Wisconsin college of agriculture will speak at the unveiling exercises.

Tragedy brought an end to Mr. Krumrey's active career as a pioneer in the cooperative movement and a leader in Wisconsin agriculture and politics. In January, 1922, his body was found hanging in a cottage at Crystal Lake, six miles west of Plymouth.

Close friends of Mr. Krumrey said that worry over the affairs of the Wisconsin Cheese Federation may have been the cause of his act, although the organization at the time was making progress.

Mr. Krumrey was born in Plymouth, Feb. 3, 1853 and was educated in local schools. He served as a state assemblyman in 1901, after resigning as a Republican nominee for presidential elector.

While in legislative circles, Mr. Krumrey fought for more adequate representation for farmers in legislative bodies and was a strong believer in the organization of cooperative agencies to market farm products. He organized and was head of the Sheboygan-co Cheese Producers Association and later founded and became head of the Wisconsin Cheese Federation.

The unveiling of the markers follow similar action in honor of Chester Hazen, who conducted the first cheese factory in Wisconsin, a marker having been placed in his honor at Ladoga.

America's Constitution

No. 12

EDITOR'S NOTE: This article, the last in Mr. Atwood's series of twelve stories on the Constitution, outlines interesting its general provisions.

BY HARRY ATWOOD
President, Constitution Anniversary Association

Among the very significant general provisions of the Constitution are the following:

"All debts contracted an engagements entered into before the adoption of this Constitution shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution as under the Confederation."

This is conclusive evidence that the men who wrote the Constitution had a high sense of honor, as they bound the new government, when set up under the Constitution, to assume all obligations that had previously been incurred by the United States. They did not favor "cancellation of debts" properly incurred, even under very trying conditions.

VESTING SUPREME LAW

This Constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding."

This provision is strong confirmation of the fact that the authors of the Constitution intended to provide for setting up a federal government that would be strong enough to maintain itself and to function at all times, under all conditions.

"The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several state legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several states, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution."

The is general doubt as to whether the average public official attaches sufficient importance and sincerity to taking an oath to support the Constitution, owing to the fact that most public officials have all too little understanding of its meaning and value.

AMENDMENTS

"The Congress, whenever two thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution or on the application of the legislatures of two thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three fourths of the several states, or by conventions in

STUDENTS PIONEER IN THEIR OWN JOBS

Few Wisconsin Students Indicate Intention of Entering Fathers' Professions

Milwaukee—(P)—We are "still a pioneering people with each generation setting off on its own occupational experiment," in the belief of Miss Irma Hightstein, Marquette University statistician. She has made a survey showing that proportionately few of the students take courses that would lead them into the same work or profession their parents practice.

More students are following the work of their fathers in the professions than there are students who follow other lines of the parent's endeavor, she finds.

Fathers of 55 students are physicians and 27 of the youths are studying medicine while 12 are enrolled in dentistry. Thus 41 per cent of the physicians' sons are studying to become doctors. It also was found that 38 per cent of the sons whose fathers are dentists are studying dentistry.

The survey discloses that of 28 students whose fathers are engineers, 57 per cent are registered in the college of engineering; of the 1,236 whose parents are engaged in business, but 192 are enrolled in the college of business administration, 422 in liberal arts and 621 in the professional schools. It was found that of 4,265 students, 2,292 or 43 per cent were residents of Milwaukee; 3,480 or 82 per cent were

WARN FARMERS TO USE STANDARD MAKE TIRES

Racine—(P)—Farmers will do well to stick by standard makes of automobile tires in purchasing equipment for their family cars and farm trucks.

This warning is given under the heading "beware of swindlers," in a Wisconsin farm magazine published here. The magazine tells farmers not to "bite" on glaring advertisements to cheap tires and send substantial sums of each from ill-reputed and unknown firms for mail order tires, or any other commodity.

"One man bought a set of four tires, at a low price to be sure, but they were mighty expensive," says the magazine. "One blew out at 80 miles, and the others looked uncertain. They turned out to be rebuilt tires—old ones that had received a coating of new rubber but which were practically worthless."

"Tires today are better than ever before and the price is only a fraction of what the same tire would have cost ten years ago. Stick to well known makes whose advertisements are found in better class publications."

Residents of Wisconsin: almost 200 came from Michigan, and more than a hundred each from Illinois and Minnesota. From Iowa came 78, Missouri and Montana 23 each, New York 28, North Dakota 27, Ohio and South Dakota 19 each.

Sixteen states sent members varying from 2 to 17 and seven states sent one each. In all, 34 states are represented. Forty-one students, mostly from Canada, came from 16 foreign countries.

Protect Your Strength

Father John's Medicine Builds HEALTH, ENERGY, ENDURANCE — FIGHTING FORCE.

Do not wait until you are run down before you take a body-builder. You protect your valuables against thieves; why be less careful of your health?

The Sister in charge of the Children's Home in Newburyport writes: "We cheerfully endorse Father John's Medicine because in our home it has become indispensable. We use it not only for coughs and colds but also as a builder. We tell our friends we would not be without it. We have used it with great success and find it has no equal."

Father John's Medicine has been a successful body builder for seventy years. No alcohol or harmful drugs.

PLAN DISTRIBUTION OF CERTIFICATES

Report cards and reading circle certificates will be distributed to the rural teachers of the county next week by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, and Arthur Collar and Miss Nellie McDermott rural supervisors. The certificates are for those who won them last year. The first report cards will not be issued, however, until the first six weeks period has ended.

CITY GRID TEAM IN TIE WITH TWO RIVERS

Two Squads Unable to Score in Interesting Tussle at Two Rivers

Menasha — Menasha city football team opened its season at Two Rivers Sunday afternoon with a tie game, 0 to 0. The teams were very evenly matched, but the visitors had a shade the better on defensive work. Last season Menasha played two games with Two Rivers and were defeated each time. Their lineup Sunday was: Left end, Edward Japel; left guard, Al Smith; left tackle, Clarence Landskron; center, Ben John; right guard, Clarence Resch; right tackle, Frank Kelly; right end, M. St. Louis. R. Krause; quarter back, Helt; left half, Farman; Capt.; full back, Hayes; right half, Kalkowski; substitutes, Potter, Kryszak, James Nissenbaum is coach and manager. A game is being arranged with Little Chute for next Sunday.

MENASHA HI ELEVEN TRIMS ALUMNI, 6-0

Menasha—Menasha high school football team defeated the alumni team Saturday by a score of 6 to 0, and Coach Calder is more than pleased with the showing they made. He tried out the entire squad of 17 men and while expecting a great deal did not anticipate they would win from such old war horses as Chapman, Klutz, Landskron, Resch, Pierce, Fahr, Bach, Hess, Novotski and Japel. Each player gave evidence that the local high school will have the strongest team in the field this year in its history. Next Sunday it will play Clintonville high school at Clintonville and the indications are that a large delegation of rooters will accompany them.

COMMISSION TO HEAR CROSSING COMPLAINT

Menasha — The Wisconsin railroad commission will hold a hearing in Menasha city hall at 2:30 Saturday afternoon, Oct. 5, in the matter of providing more adequate protection at the crossing of the Soo Line railway one mile northwest of the city limits of Menasha. The hearing has been called upon petition of the board of Menasha. Action was taken by the board following a fatal accident at the crossing several months ago.

MENASHA MAN REELECTED HOLY NAME SOCIETY OFFICER

Menasha—E. V. Weber of Menasha was reelected secretary and treasurer of the Holy Name societies at the district convention and rally at Manitowishwaukee Sunday. Other officers reelected were President, Phil Sheridan, Green Bay; spiritual advisor, the Rev. William Klerman, Green Bay. More than 4,500 members took part in the parade which was held in the rain. It was decided to hold the next convention at Oshkosh. Approximately 400 members were present from St. John, St. Mary, and St. Patrick churches of Menasha, including the boy scouts of St. Patrick church. The program was carried out as planned in spite of the rain. The principal speakers were Bishop Paul Rohde, Green Bay; the Rev. F. X. Nistler of Kimberly; and Quinn O'Brien, Chicago. The number of visitors were estimated at 10,000.

RUTH SPEARICK GIVEN DIVORCE AT MENASHA

Menasha—Ruth Spearick of Menasha was granted a decree of divorce from Frank Spearick in county court at Oshkosh Saturday. The defendant did not appear, the contested issues having been settled by the attorneys in the case. The complaint charged non-support and desertion. Mrs. Spearick alleged that her husband locked her out of her home. The couple was married May 7 and has no children. Under the terms of the decree the plaintiff was permitted use of her maiden name.

CHIEF FIGURES IN MURDER

Hammon, N. J.—(P)—With developments moving swiftly in the investigation of fatal shooting of Dr. A. William Lillendahl (left), the authorities said Monday they were nearing a solution of the mystery. Louis Repetto, prosecutor of Atlantic-co, predicted that at least one arrest on the charge of murder would be made. Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl (right) widow of the physician and Willis Beach are under bail as material witnesses. Beach, a 50-year-old poultry farmer, is alleged by the authorities to have admitted being the author of the letter addressed to "Peggy Anderson," said to have been received by Mrs. Lillendahl and to have met her many times at a trysting place in a secluded den.

The physician's 41-year-old widow denies that Beach's relations with her were anything but those of a family friend. Mrs. Lillendahl still maintains that her husband was shot by two negroes.

UNIVERSITY RAISES TOBACCO; OFFICERS ASK BAN ON "FAGS"

Board of Regents Found to Be Members of State Tobacco Pool

Madison—(P)—Shortly after the annual inhibition of University of Wisconsin heads against cigars and other "vices" it became known that the university raises tobacco.

The board of regents is a member of the Northern Wisconsin Tobacco Pool, in good standing.

This incongruity is rooted in the firm soil of the agricultural college's experimental station tobacco plots.

When through taking the many items of data on the crop, the University will deliver to the pool about 150 tons of tobacco, under the contract with the large Wisconsin growers' organization.

The pool's publication, going to the tobacco raisers who made up its organization, this week tells of the experimental work at the agricultural college intended to benefit the "weed" growers.

The station conducted experiments this summer on 200 separate plots. Some plots were in tobacco, others in other crops being grown in rotation.

Each plot is one-fourth of an acre in size and carefully divided off and kept separate from the others. Experiments were carried on to test results of the application of different fertilizers and of fertilizers applied in different amounts and in various forms.

Also experiments are made in attempt to determine tobacco results after other crop rotations of various length.

Each plot is harvested separately, the tobacco strung on marked lath; the tobacco from each plot hung separately in the shed and stripped and placed in separately marked bundles.

At the time of stripping the tobacco from each plot is weighed and recorded and even the weights of the stalks are kept.

When the tobacco is stripped the leaf from each plot is graded separately for quality.

The station knows at the end of the season the exact results obtained from each experiment.

For years research has been carried on along the lines of seed strain development, tobacco diseases, tobacco insects and tobacco soils. A few of the outstanding results of practical value brought to the growers are the steaming of tobacco beds, now almost universally practiced in the state; the Havana No. 28 strain of tobacco seed, probably used more extensively than any other and discovery of root rot or "sick soils" and the subsequent development of resistant seed strains.

The University's tobacco crop was harvested August 31 and September 1, and is now cured, the farm officials reporting it to be in fine condition.

NEW ATHLETIC FIELD TO BE USED SATURDAY

Neenah—Citizens' Athletic field will be used for the first time next Saturday afternoon when the high school football team will open its season by playing the St. Peter high school team of Oshkosh. Although this game will be the first to be played on the new field, which was built by subscriptions made by Neenah people, the formal dedication ceremonies at the field will be held Saturday, Oct. 15, when the two rivers team will play here.

Several practices by the high school team will be conducted at the new field should the weather change and the grounds dry up.

OVER A BILLION FOR NEW BUILDINGS IN U. S.

Washington, D. C.—New buildings to the value of $1,282,000,000 were projected in seventy-eight large cities in the first half of this year, the labor department announced today.

Despite talk of a slowing down in building construction the value of structure for which permits were obtained, dropped only 6.2 per cent from the first six months of 1925. Dwelling, stores, factories and other structures are included in the figures.

"Cliff-dwelling," made new gains this year as the percentage of families provided for in apartment houses rose from 42.2 per cent to 51.7 per cent. Meanwhile the percentage provided for in one family dwellings fell off, from 35.7 to 34.6.

The department gathered data from eighty cities, including two which did not report last year. With an aggregate

How To Play Bridge

By Milton O. Work

The pointer for today is: IT IS IMPORTANT TO UNDERSTAND HOW TO DECLARE AS PARTNER OF AN INITIAL MAJOR SUIT BIDDER, THE INTERVENING ADVERSARY HAVING PASSED

The partner of a player who has opened the auction by bidding one of a major suit, the intervening adversary passing, may make one of three very different declarations. He may jump his partner's bid; he may deny his partner's suit by bidding some other suit or No Trump; or he may pass. There are recognized types of holdings for each of these declarations, and to be a dependable partner a player must be able to recognize each type.

To illustrate this important point, and to afford an interesting series of tests and contests, twenty hands and the customary answer slip are given today. Four hands in numerical order with explanation of the correct declarations will appear each day starting tomorrow and ending Saturday. You are urged to get your Bridge friends to fill slips and compare scores with you at the end of the week.

WATER POWER ISSUE IN NEXT STATE CAMPAIGN

Madison—Water power control will be one of the leading issues in the next state campaign and a big problem for solution by the next legislature, Alvin C. Reis, La Follette floor leader of the lower house, contends. Mr. Reis sponsored the movement for an investigation of this problem by an interim committee.

Senator H. B. Daggett, Milwaukee, chairman, announces that the committee has organized and has laid out a program to inspect all the larger waterpower dam sites in the state.

Back of the movement is a plan by LaFollette leaders, according to Mr. Reis, to offer at the next session of the legislature a resolution to amend the constitution so that the state will have the power to acquire private dam sites and operate them.

The committee will inspect about 30 power sites within the next seven days and after that it will hold public hearings in various sections of the state to get general information and opinions on the state water power problem.

EDUCATIONAL BONUS USED BY WAR VETS

Madison—(P)—About 50 former service men have taken advantage of the four-year extension of the state educational bonus provided by the last legislature, according to the division of soldiers' rehabilitation of the adjutant-general's department.

Of this number, 35 are enrolled in the University of Wisconsin here. The others are divided among Marquette University in Milwaukee, Oshkosh Normal School, River Falls Normal School, Whitewater Normal, Carroll College, Lawrence College, Stout Institute, West Division High School in Milwaukee, Eau Claire Normal, and the Milwaukee Vocational School.

RAIN STOPS GAME

Neenah—Rain stopped the Neenah-Menasha baseball game Sunday afternoon in the third inning with Menasha leading by a score of 3 to 0. The game was played at Recreation park, Menasha.

Because of the unusually cold summer in northern Siberia, the natives have sacrificed scores of precious reindeer.

The PENNY PRINCESS

BEGIN HERE TODAY
VERA VICTORIA CAMERON, efficient secretary, allows JERRY MACKLYN, advertising manager of the Peach Bloom Cosmetics Co., to transform her into a beauty through the use of the company cosmetics after she falls suddenly in love with a man who ignores her.

In transforming her, the beauty specialist copies a picture Jerry finds in his desk. Jerry falls in love with VERA, also called Vee-Vee, and his love persists even after he learns she wants to be beautiful so she can spend her vacation at Lake Minnetonka, and meet the man she loves, SCHUYLER SMYTHE.

At the lake hotel, Smythe and the guests mistake Vee-Vee for the princess, VIVIAN CRANDALL, who after a PARIS divorce, is in hiding. VERA tries to convince people of her true identity but is not believed. VERA opens a letter Jerry gave her before her departure and learns he unknowingly used the Crandall heiress' picture in refashioning her and warns her not to pose as the notorious VIVIAN should she be mistaken for her.

NAN FOSDICK, unattractive but wealthy, leaves the hotel in anger because she believes VERA has taken Schuyler's affection from her. Nan's mother tells VERA that she has learned Schuyler is a salaried secretary, four-flusher and fortune-hunter, but VERA refuses to believe it.

THURSTON, hotel manager, has VERA and Schuyler watched. They go to the pier at midnight for a few minutes alone and there Schuyler confesses his love. She and Schuyler leave in a car. Schuyler insisting they must marry that night. VERA, hoping he loves her for herself alone, tells him the truth, showing him Jerry's letter to prove she is not the heiress. Schuyler is insane with anger; then it occurs to him she may be testing his love and he tries to retrieve, but too late, for VERA has seen through his scheme. She orders him you, sheik. But don't make the mistake of giving a passing car the high sign for at least half an hour, see? Not that I'll need that long, my partner and me, but we don't like to be hurried, especially when we're out driving with a pretty girl."

As Vee-Vee took her seat in the tonneau of the sedan, closely guarded, she still felt strangely free of fear. It was certain that they would not take her back to the Minnetonka or anywhere near it. If they were merely highway robbers they would turn her loose when they had satisfied themselves that she had only $10 in her vanity case and no jewels of value on her person. But—if they were bandits why hadn't they gone through Schuyler Smythe's pockets? He certainly looked like a gentleman of means, and they undoubtedly knew that he was a guest of the fashionable Minnetonka hotel.

A sudden thought made her turn faint, wiped the mocking, unconcerned smile off her beautiful mouth. "Are you detectives?" she asked.

"Detectives? Hey, pard, that's good! She wants to know if we're detectives," the man she had addressed sang out to the one at the wheel.

"Sorry, miss, but we ain't detectives—that is, if you'd like to meet up with a detective or two."

"No," Vee-Vee laughed with relief. "I much prefer bandits to detectives. But don't you think it would be wiser to take off your masks? If a passing car flashes its headlights at you, you'll be in rather a nasty situation, unless you can convince the occupants that you are protecting yourselves against influenza germs. You know," she added, in a cheerful, conversational voice, "I've always believed bandits wore masks only in detective novels. It's a pleasure to find out I'm wrong. I never expected such an exciting end to a perfect day."

"You're a good sport, miss," the man beside her laughed, as he raised his hands to unhook the black handkerchief. "Me and my pardner ain't much on looks, nothing to compare with that sheik of yours, but I'm afraid you've got to take us, since you can't leave us alone."

Vee-Vee laughed politely, as she studied the face which the man beside her revealed with the removal of his mask. In the faint light it was hard to distinguish his features clearly, but she saw that he had a face as round as a full moon, with little eyes twinkling beneath whitish eyebrows. His mouth was wide and thick beneath a fat blob of a nose.

"The little lady's been giving me the once over, pardner," the owner of the face sang out in his hoarse nasal voice, a voice that suggested New York's lower East Side. "Now you turn around and let her vote on which of us is the handsome."

The driver, who had gotten the car under way and was driving at a furious clip, pivoted his bare head sharply on his neck and grinned at her for an instant. It was by far the more evil face of the two—gaunt, thin, swart, with a hooked nose pointing scornfully at a narrow-lipped, tight mouth, like a thin red gash across his face. His chin was so pointed and so prominent as to make his face look deformed, a gargoye of cruelty. The girl shuddered involuntarily and the man beside her laughed heartily.

"She don't like your mug, pardner," he chuckled. "Why, lady, he's the boggy man that makes scare the kids with."

"Shut your trap!" the driver snarled, as if his vanity were hurt. "Is this the right road, Useless? Better pay more attention to business and less to kidding."

The car was hesitating at a crossroad.

"Yep, turn to the left," the moon-faced man directed rather sulkily.

"Bout three miles along this dirt road."

"Where are you taking me?" Vee-Vee demanded, fear plumping her body with gooseflesh. "This has gone far enough."

"Oh, not half far enough," the moon-faced man chuckled. "You'll be surprised, lady. But don't you worry. Nobody's going to hurt you, unless you try to get away."

"Are you kidnaping me?" she shrilled.

"How'd you guess it?" the man beside her chuckled wickedly. "We seen you at the Minnetonka, and we says to ourselves, 'Lord, what a pretty girl! take on a joy ride, didn't we pardner?'

he appealed to the man on the front seat.

"Aw, shut up!" the driver growled. "Would you know that field in the dark? It was hard to tell just how far it was with us walking before," he added cryptically.

"Sure. It was one of them apple fences, the first one you come to on this road."

"Listen, boys," Vee-Vee began ingratiatingly. "Why are you kidnaping me? Who do you think I am?"

It had come to her in a flash that this was but another amazing denouement of her innocent impersonation of the Crandall heiress. With the papers full of Vivian Crandall's disappearance and of the unsuccessful search that private detectives and police were making for her, there was small room for wonder that crooks had taken advantage of the situation. But—how had they known where she was? Then she remembered the anonymous letter which she had found under her door early that evening, demanding a hundred dollars for silence. She had not paid the blackmail, and now she was being kidnaped. Of course they would hold her for ransom.

"Who do you think we are?" the driver fung at her contemptuously. "Lady, we know who you are. We was hiding under the pier while you and that collar-ad sheik was billing and cooing. We sure got a careful of mush, thought you two'd never break away. But you played right into our hands. Your sheik steals a car to elope with you, and we swipe another to follow you in."

"Me and my pardner here feel awful bad 'cause we ain't got our swaller-tail coats on," the moon-faced man mourned mockingly, "seeing as how we're going joy riding in the evening with a princess."

"I'm not a princess. I never have been a princess!" Vee-Vee cried out, leaning forward to shake the shoulder of the driver of the car. She recognized that he was the leader.

"Sit down and keep quiet! How am I going to keep my mind on my business with you howling in my ear?" the driver snarled at her.

"I tell you I'm not Vivian Crandall, if that is who you think I am!" Veevee protested shrilly. "Please let me out!"

"Bay, lady, do you think we pulled this stunt before we was sure of the lay of the land? We had a picture of you and a complete description. You fit it to the last detail, and we just been telling you we heard you talking to that sheik of yours on the pier tonight. No, lady, pipe down and be nice! Ain't no use pulling that gag on us! We know our onions!"

She saw then that it was quite useless to try to convince them. No one would believe her, no one had believed her from the first. She lay back against the cushions of the stolen sedan—she had recognized it as belonging to Mrs. Fossdick, a fact which seemed faintly ironic to her, though she could not have said why—and closed her tired eyes.

"Don't cry, lady," the moon-faced man urged with rough kindness. "We ain't going to hurt you. All right, pardner. This is the lane where we turn in. Or shall we leave the car here?"

"Leave it here, I guess," the driver grunted, as he killed the engine. "All right, step lively, miss. Ever been up in a sky buggy? Bet I guess an airplane ain't no novelty to you. Bring that bag with you, pardner," he called to the moon-faced man.

"An airplane?" Vee-Vee ached. Then, curiously, a little thrill of anticipation fluttered in her heart. She had always wanted to ride in an airplane, but she had never dreamed that the experience would come to her in this bizarre fashion.

In the meantime, Schuyler Smythe gets back to the Minnetonka, where an alarm has been raised over Vee-Vee's disappearance. Read the next chapter.

Melssen, Germany, the town where Dresden china is made, will be 1000 years old in May, 1929. A feature of the festivities will be a chime of bells made of porcelain.

CLASSES TO STUDY METHOD OF TESTING GARMENT TEXTURES

Vocational School Will Offer
Courses in Practical Homemaking

Methods of testing the texture, quality, durability, and pattern of fabrics, and how to select ready-to-wear garments will be taught in a new course to be offered at night classes which will open Oct. 10, at the Vocational school.

Color combinations for different types and the appropriate lines and spaces for different figures will be considered, and the selection of accessories carefully executed. The class will include a series of illustrative material and several demonstrations.

Since it has been found that early training is most significant, a course in child training has been arranged for the coming year. This unit will include lessons in child psychology and habit formation.

All the courses in the home making department will be divided into progressive units to meet the special needs of the students. In this way the student may progress from one unit to another, according to his particular needs.

Practice work will be stressed in all classes. Instruction will be supplemented by demonstrations of sewing processes and use of sewing machines and appliances. Illustrative materials will be used to demonstrate textiles, fashion designs, and color combinations.

STUDY FUNDAMENTALS

The beginning class in sewing will study the construction of plain pieces such as aprons, underwear, slips and pajamas. The fundamentals of sewing will receive emphasis, while special attention will be given to the use of the machine attachments.

In the children's clothing course special stress will be laid on making of garments for children from 1 to 10 years, although baby layettes may be included.

Ripping, sponging, cleaning and pressing will be included in one unit, as well as remodeling and reweaving of silk and wool garments. Choosing types of garments to be made over, laying on patterns and cutting and fitting are some of the points touched upon.

Cutting and fitting makes up an entire class by itself. It is intended for experienced sewers who would like to learn how to fit garments on themselves and others. Garments will not be made beyond the fitting stage.

The silk and wool unit gives special attention to the choice of materials, patterns, designs, trimmings, cutting and fitting.

MILLINERY COURSE

The millinery course is made as practical as possible both in renovation of materials and remodeling and in the creation of new hats.

The progressive unit system is also carried into the food department. Plain cooking is offered for the beginners, including food preservation, vegetable cookery, meats, salads, soups and scalloped dishes. The baking unit includes the making of quick breads, cookies, cakes and pastry.

Another course offers instruction in planning, preparing and serving of simple meals, placing special emphasis on balanced menus. Still another discusses malnutrition, its causes, effects and results. Mothers of small children should be especially interested in this work. Laboratory work and demonstrations accompany the instruction.

A home nursing course to be offered will give the homemaker many helpful suggestions.

STATE INSURANCE DAY OBSERVANCE ON OCT. 26

Announcement of the observance of Wisconsin Insurance day, which will take place on Oct. 26 at Milwaukee, has been received by G. D. Ziegler, president of the Aid Association for Lutherans, from J. E. Kennedy, deputy state commissioner of insurance. The program will consist of talks by several nationally-known speakers and an entertainment program.

STAGE And SCREEN

RICHARD DIX HAS STRONG ROLE IN ORIENTAL DRAMA

Have you ever read about the hair-raising exploits of Captain Kidd, Long John Silver and all the other pirates and buccaners in story books? Piracy as colorful is flourishing today, just as it did in the days of the Spanish Main.

It furnishes the basic theme of Richard Dix' new Paramount starring picture, "Shanghai Bound," which is now showing at Fischers Appleton Theatre.

Chinese river pirates are attacking ships today as they have for centuries. The only difference is that they have improved their methods. Organized bands of marine marauders operate up and down the Yangtze River from Shanghai, stripping luckless vessels they capture. They even attack ocean-going steamers.

Authority for these statements is Edward S. (Tex) O'Reilly, former member of the International Police Force at Shanghai and later drill-master for the Chinese Imperial Army. Observations along the Yangtze River over a period of three years were set down recently by O'Reilly and offered to Paramount. His story "Shanghai Bound" was snapped up at once as a Richard Dix starring vehicle. It has proved ideal material, according to critics.

Dix plays a captain of a Yangtze River steamer in the picture and his efforts to take a cargo of American refugees down the river to Shanghai and safety for the skeleton of the plot. River pirates, spurred on by hunger, greed and revenge, are the obstacles in his path, and he overcomes them only after hard fighting all the way down.

Mary Brian is the American girl Dix saves. Jocelyn Lee, Charles Byer, George Irving, Arthur Hoyt, Tom McGuire, Frank Chew and Tetsu Komai appear in other important roles. More than 150 Chinese appear in the light scenes. Luther Reed directed.

"All of my employees have been with me for years and I know every one of them personally," is one of the stock reasons why many employers refuse to bond their employees. That this is not a valid objection is very easily proven. What employer knows EVERYTHING that EVERY ONE OF HIS EMPLOYEES does outside of his or her working hours? How many of them know the intimate details of their employees' lives? Probably only a very small percentage, and yet it is the things that employees do and the situations they have to meet A F T E R WORKING HOURS that lead them to steal.

If you do not want to take a chance you cannot afford to be without this form of protection.

Fringe And Contrasts In Color Two Features Of Latest Distinctive Frocks, Writes Germaine

PARIS Sept. 24

My Dear cousin:
So you are going to buy a fur coat! I do wish you could have seen the perfectly adorable model Lanvin is showing of white lamb with a regular Lord Byron collar trimmed with bands of grey gazelle, and cuffs and pockets of the gray fur.

It absolutely has a little string tie of fur if you can imagine anything more delightful. And the line is so youthful, close at the shoulder with a gradual flare so it is quite wide at the hemline.

For sport wear coats here are very plain and slim, with small, tailored collars, belts and patch pockets. Quite often they are kasha lined. In furs, goat stands right at the top, with pony, antelope, elkskin and all the furs that never before had much standing following closely.

THEY'RE NOT BULKY
One reason for the popularity of these furs is that they are not thick and bulky, and of course not nearly so warm as the heavier pelts, and they take the narrow slender lines we all want now.

For general wear caracul, Persian lamb, krimmer and such furs are much exploited in gray and tan as well as black. Naturally nutria, seal, beaver, and mink are reaching a high state of development. Collars seem less expensive to me than usual, and the shawl line with the deep V opening is much in evidence.

Everywhere I notice the tendency to bring back more important and more distinctive looking clothes. Some of the most festive gowns I've seen were made for Florenz Zamboni, who is a favorite dancer in the Folies Bergere, by Paul Poiret who is usually a season at least ahead of anyone else in his ideas, and who has no aversion to dramatic and exotic effects.

These frocks—I'm sending you pictures of them—emphasize the use of fringe and color contrast. The white evening gown has a bodice trimmed with sapphires and a band of sapphire velvet filling in the low cut neckline and forming sleeve caps. That fringed skirt shades from sapphire to white.

Even more unusual is the evening ensemble which has a slightly Russian flavor. The cape is of black silk net with designs woven in it of gold and silver threads forming scallops upon a deep border of black satin. The frock has an upper section of black satin with rhinestones forming the collar, the front edging and the girdle which turns into an apron and adds a little fringe for good measure. The skirt and the sleeves are of white crepe de chine the sleeves being the new harlequin effect very wide at the wrist.

THEY COVER THE KNEE
You will notice that the knee is not featured in either frock. Poiret having lowered his hemline this season by several inches. The effect of the lace, transparent cape with this very unusual gown is most unusual. It could not be worn by every type of woman, but of course, it would probably not appeal to the baby doll type.

Paquin is showing some delightful clothes in red and henna shades. One evening frock is made of pink chiffon with ruffles and a pointed girdle of deep red chiffon. He also has a lovely wool frock of deep red kasha with a scalloped hem and a side drape that is worn under a coat of the same shade with a high, standing collar of black astrakhan.

LITTLE STRAIGHT BLOUSES
I love the little straight blouses of gold or silver cloth that are worn with the wool and velvet suits. I like too beige or gray kasha heavily embroidered in dull metal threads combined with plain kasha. The dotted velvets are going to be overdone, I fear, but I do love the way Chanel uses black with white dots and then poises lovely scarlet flowers on the shoulder.

Let me know about your coat—I'm dying to know what you got. And don't forget those pictures of your house.

Devotedly,

GERMAINE

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

RIGHT down the path the dog cart rode. The dog pulled quite a heavy load, and all the little Tinymites enjoyed it very much. Wee Clowdy said, "We're going fast. I wonder how long this will last. If we should let this dog get lost, 'twill get us all in Dutch."

Then Copsy snapped, "Oh, let's not fret. This old dog knows his way. I'll bet, I wonder where he's taking us, and is it very far?" "Well, what's the difference?" Scouty said. "The hound is bound to go ahead. We might as well be satisfied, no matter where we are."

Up over a hill they easily flew and saw a lot of sights quite new. The bunch was interested and they didn't even peep. And then some snoring filled the air and Copsy shouted, "I declare! Right on the floor of this small cart, wee Clowdy's gone to sleep."

The dog took one more jump and hop and then decided he'd best stop.

"Wake up there, Clowdy," shouted one. "Here's where we all depart. They all jumped to the ground and then it started all the Tinymites when the little dog ran on again and pulled away the cart."

And then the bunch heard Clowdy cry, "Why, there's a windmill, right nearby. Let's ride upon the paddles. It will be a heap of fun. We'll climb up there from off the ground and get the thing to swinging round." So, toward the funny windmill all the bunch began to run.

They scampered up the windmill side so they could have their dandy ride. In getting on the paddles 'bout a half an hour was spent. Just then a breeze began to blow, and Clowdy shouted, "Here we go!" And, sure enough, the windmill turned, and round and round they went.

(Clowdy gives the Tinymites a laugh in the next story.)

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Faith, watching Cherry intently as Glenn Andrews pleaded with her to marry him, saw through him in her sister's strange, golden eyes, a flush of pleasure over the cheeks that had been so waxen-white with anxiety over the kidnapping of her baby. She wanted to cry out to Cherry, to warn her not to commit herself to a man who had shown himself so despicable. But when Cherry spoke, Faith realized that there had been no need to warn Cherry.

"I'm sorry, Glenn. Please get up off your knees. I don't marry you. You must know that I don't after—after the way you've treated me. No, don't interrupt me, please. I've ordered him, a little while ago, the man was about to take me away. I would have married you at night, or the night before. When Glenn, I should have told you that the words I—"

"Then you do love me," Andrews said. "That Glenn Andrews had risen to his feet, 'that I shan't marry anyone—ever.'"

An ugly expression settled about Glenn Andrews' eyes and mouth. "So you're planning to go on living off your brother-in-law, are you?"

"I work for my living," Cherry flamed. "Bob says I'm worth every penny of the thirty-five dollars a week he pays me—"

"Oh, so you're going to keep on working, eh?" Andrews sneered. "I thought you were going to devote every hour of your days and nights to taking care of the baby. Well, good-bye. Thanks for telling me the truth—that you'd planned to marry me for my position and my money. I'll not renew the offer."

When he had gone, flinging himself out of the room like a man possessed of a demon, Cherry's bright head, which she had continued to hold so proudly as long as the man was in the room, drooped upon her breast.

"Oh, Faith," Cherry moaned, laying her head wearily upon Faith's shoulder. "I'm trapped, trapped! Glenn's right! If I do what I want to do—stay at home—your home—and take care of my baby, we'll both be utterly dependent upon Bob. If I work, I'll be shifting my responsibilities to your shoulders. My baby will grow up, hardly knowing me as her real mother. She'll look to you for everything—her care, training, affection, guidance—Oh, Faith, tell me what to do! I want to be good! I do so want to be good." Again Cherry was a child, turning instinctively to the sister who had been more of a mother to her than the poor woman who was dead.

Faith forced herself to make the answer which she knew would spell happiness for Cherry, although it meant continued misery of jealousy for herself.

"You will be happier if you go on working, darling. You can be Hope's mother at night, endearing yourself to her as only you know how to do. And she's so young yet, dear. Maybe the future will offer a solution—"

GRACEFUL, SLOPING ROOF ONE OF FEATURES OF "THE BEAUMONT"

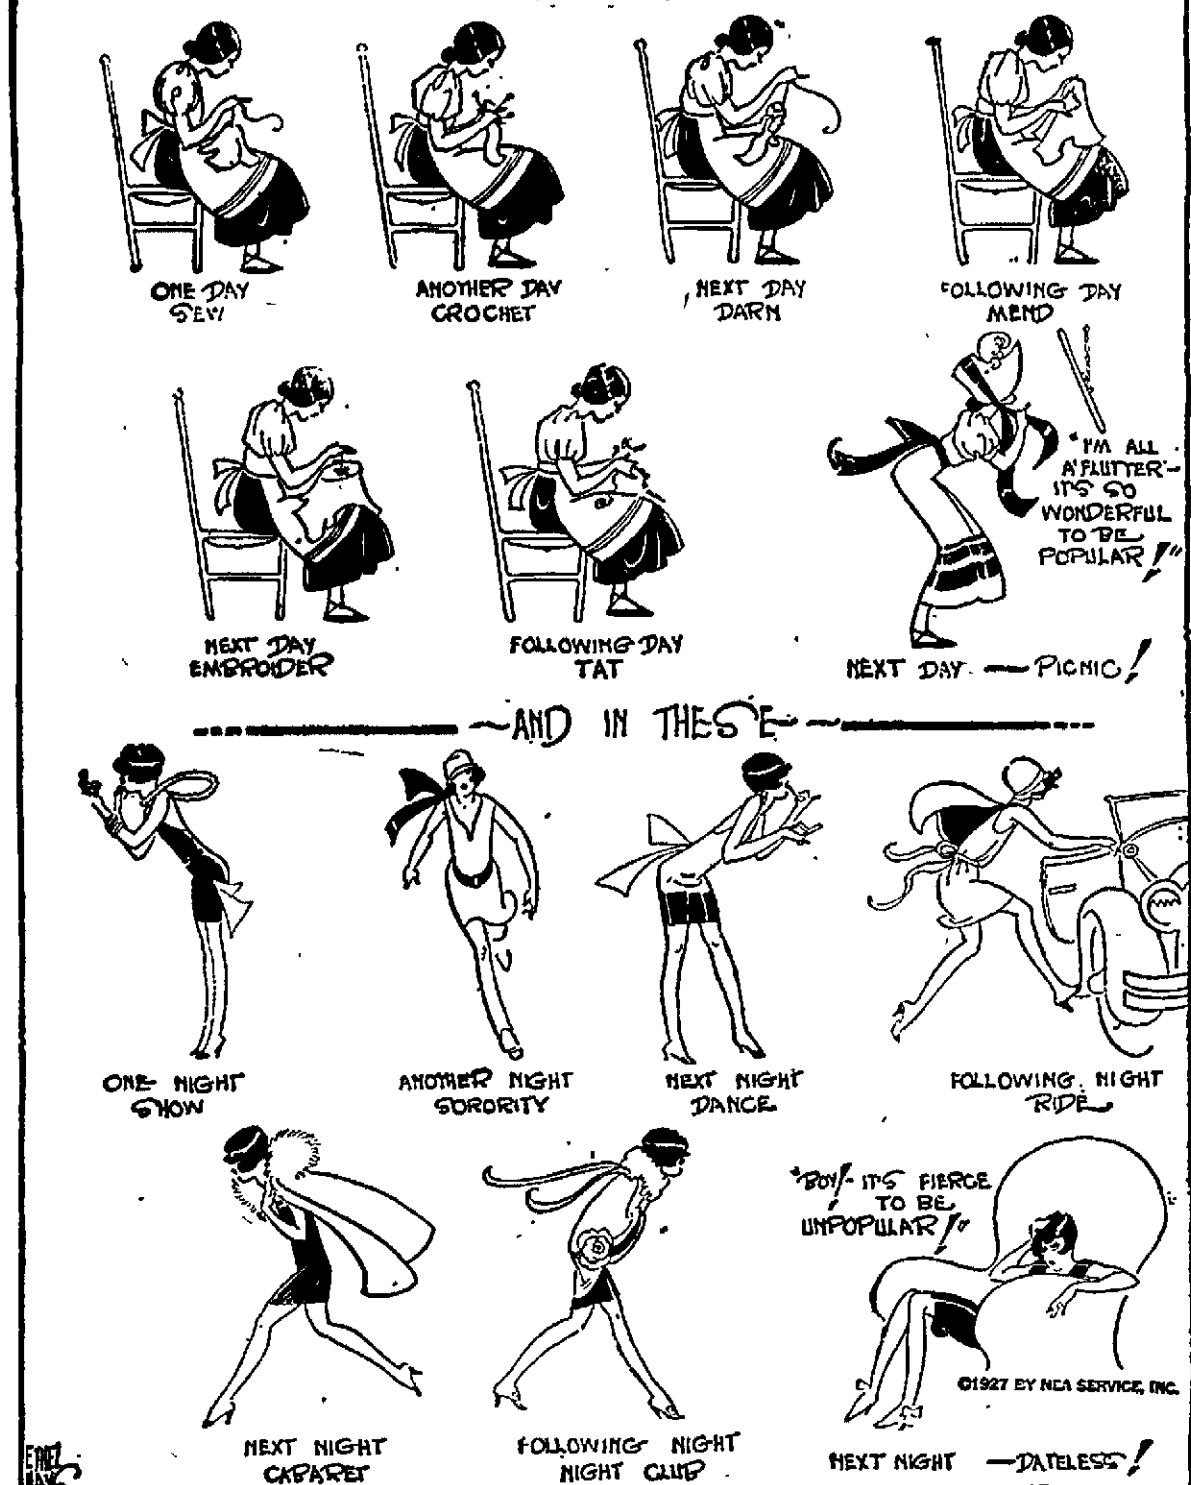

LUCKY is the person who lives with beauty, for life inevitably is richer and finer for him.

That is one reason why "The Beaumont" should appeal to men and women of aesthetic taste. Its graceful, sloping roof, its prim, Colonial door with classic pediment. Its shaggy, shingled surfaces, dormer windowed bedrooms and several porches subtly impress their loveliness upon one.

Inside the vestibule, which sounds the note of privacy that a real home should have, are a comfortable closet for hanging guests' wraps as well as family coats, and a bench for waiting. Times Have Changed--A Lot

~A FLAPPER'S DIARY~
IN THOSE DAYS

TURNING EDUCATION TABLES

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I REFUTED the statement made by a prominent editor recently that in his day "boys worked in the summer to help pay for their education, but it seemed out of fashion now."

Now the secretary of an Institute of Technology in Pennsylvania submits a report that not only confirms my own observations, but goes so much further that surely the sharp spoken editor in question must be hurrying to the oculists to be sure that his eyes have not deceived him.

The headline read thus: "Students at Tech Earn Nearly a Million in a Year. Jobs of Every Description Accepted by Pupils to Help Pay College Expenses."

Doesn't it look as though the tables were turning? Instead of being educated so they may work, now they are working so they may be educated.

The jobs accepted by the boys were as diversified as the students themselves, including waiters, handymen, men, surveyors, caddies, musicians, chauffeurs, gardeners, donors of blood for transfusion, anything and everything by which they could earn money. Not far behind the boys were the girls. Women students in the same school had positions as waitresses, clerical workers, stenographers, models, shoppers, tea-room managers, book-keepers, nurses, telegraph operators and part-time jobs of various kinds.

I have heard men resent the fact that students asked them to stake them to an education. It seems that our editor friend had had a similar experience which probably accounted for his rather brittle paragraph. But there is an answer to that also. One college that has a lending system of this order, has issued a statement to the fact that all the students it has ever staked to an education had repaid every penny borrowed—all but three, and those three were unavoidably prevented by illness or accident.

SHE WENT FROM BAD TO WORSE

Down to 98 Pounds—Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having lost my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. Riessinger, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose? Wealth? Happiness? Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

Mrs. Katie Leith returned Saturday from a two weeks visit in Dorchester and Marshfield.

TOWNSKAWMEN LOOK GOOD
BUT DROP 25 TO 6
GAME TO OSHKOSHMcAndrews' Boys Show Lack of Experience in First Game of Season

Kaukauna—A light and unexperienced Kaukauna high school football squad was defeated by a 25 to 6 score by the Oshkosh team at the Kaukauna City Saturday afternoon. The Kawmen entered the game with only four veterans of last year's squad in the lineup while Oshkosh had practically the same backfield as last year and many veterans in the line. While Captain Crowell, Tadych and Moister were starting for the Blues and White Luedtke was assuring Kaw fans that he was ready for a berth on the first team. In the second half he carried the ball for many 5 and 7 yard gains and outkicked the Fox River Valley conference star, Tadych.

The McAndrewsmen showed they had plenty of class when M. Miller shoved over for a touchdown in the second period after Oshkosh had scored 19 points on them.

Kaukauna got one break in the game and that at the beginning when it kicked off with the wind. A strong easterly wind was blowing and for the first quarter Kaukauna was favored. Crowell got the ball on his 22-yard line and ran it back ten in the first play and then sidestepped right end for a 65 yard run and a touchdown. On the next play, lack of football experience was responsible for this score for the Kaukauna line did not shift with the Blue and White. Crowell kicked the extra point and the McAndrewsmen were on the short end of a 7 to 0 score in the first minute of play.

Oshkosh kicked to M. Miller who ran it back to the Kaukauna 30 yard line. He rushed around left end for a yard. M. Miller made but two through center and Kemp's kicked was blocked by Oshkosh in midfield.

The Blue and White took the ball and Moister ran nine yards through right tackle. Hilgenberg was sent in for a five yard loss but Tadych made 11 around right end. Kaukauna held one cent smash but then Tadych went over for his second touchdown on the next play and Crowell missed goal.

The Schneidermans kicked to W. Miller who ran back 25 yards from the Kaukauna 22 yard line. M. Miller made 8 through center and then made first down on the next play. A pass to Miller from Hishon was incomplete. Tadych intercepted the next attempt to pass and ran 55 yards for touchdown. Crowell again missed the goal. Things looked bad for the Kaukauna with a 19 to 0 score against them in the first quarter. Van Lieshout was in for Hilgenberg. Time was taken out for Kemp.

Tadych kicked to Kaukauna's twenty yard line. He was outkicking the Kawmen at this stage of the game. Kemp was taken out for a hard body blow. Hishon went over to quarter and Luedtke at left half. Luedtke made nothing and then gained two on the second play. Luedtke punted to the Oshkosh three yard line. Oshkosh fumbled the ball and Tadych recovered it. Tadych was thrown for two yard loss. Tadych kicked to Hishon on the Orange and Black 30 yard line and "Babe" ran it back twelve yards. Miller made very little on the next play but Luedtke went right through right tackle for first down. M. Miller kicked nothing through. Tadych kicked to Hishon on the Oshkosh six yard line as the first quarter ended.

Miller was thrown for a five yard loss on the next play but Hishon rushed the ball to within a foot of the goal line. Here the Blue and White tightened and held the Kaukauna for four downs.

The Blue and White took the ball and Black started their plunging again. It was evident now that the McAndrewsmen had found Oshkosh on even terms.

Kaukauna had the ball on the Oshkosh twelve yard line. Luedtke fumbled the ball and Tadych recovered it. Tadych made an eight yard gain all on the same play. Time was taken out while the coaches argued the length of time for the quarters. A two minute discussion led the coaches to agree on an eight minute quarter. It was decided to cut the second quarter short by one minute. Luedtke made an exceptionally long one. Luedtke made another gain and then M. Miller plunged over for a touchdown. Luedtke missed goal.

In the last minute of play in the first half Oshkosh made its final touchdown after the Orange and Black had worked the ball down to the Blue and White ten yard line on straight football. It looked like another touchdown for the Kawmen but Moister intercepted a pass and ran 30 yards for a touchdown. This ended the scoring in the game for Crowell again failed to kick goal.

The second half was a quite different story. Kaukauna not only held the 150 pound Oshkosh line but pounded them and outplayed through the entire half. The squad did not have strength enough to put over a touchdown though and it would lose the ball in crucial moments. Ferguson looked extremely well at right end and many times he threw Oshkosh backfield men for big losses. Luedtke

RIDES BUMPER OF RUNAWAY CAR WHEN IT RUNS INTO TREE

Kaukauna—Mrs. Ben Rademacher, Wisconsin-ave, nearly was hurt and got a thrilling ride Saturday morning when her automobile crashed into a tree in Lave park while she was riding on the bumper. Mrs. Rademacher was attempting to crank the car which was in gear and it moved forward as soon as the motor started and the same time her car caught a sleeve caught in the crank. To save herself from being run over she jumped on the bumper hoping the car would stop but it traveled across the street in front of the Hess grocery store on Lave-stand and hit a tree. Mrs. Rademacher was sitting on the opposite end of the bumper. Mrs. Rademacher was uninjured.

BAND PLAYS IT NEXT
CONCERT IN AUDITORIUM

Kaukauna—Plans are being made to hold the next public band concert by the Kaukauna Moose band on Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium, according to Norman Gerhart, business manager of the band. If the auditorium is available on that evening the concert will be held there because of the cold weather. This concert was supposed to be at Lave park.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without gripping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crummy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

Brothers Josh Each Other;
Work Hard For Big Stakes

St. Paul—The two grandsons of the late James J. Hill are working as day laborers on the Great Northern railroad—the railroad they will some day own.

They are very young men; as far as money goes, each of them could own a railroad of his own right now if he chose. But they are setting out to earn their ownership, one by working with a construction crew and the other by laboring as a machinist's helper.

Furthermore, they are having a race—a race to see which will get first to the president's chair of the road their grandfather built.

One is working up. The other is working down. If the latter meets his brother at the half-way station he'll turn around and go back with him.

WON'T START AT BOTTOM
Courtland Hill, 21, the younger of the two brothers, is the one who is "working down." He doesn't propose to work his way through all departments and all jobs; not for him are the success stories about the ambitious lad who began at the bottom of the ladder and worked his way to the top by slow and painful struggles.

But he does want to know something about the railroad, and he doesn't mind getting his face and hands dirty while he's learning.

So he is working as a machinist's helper, working in the Dale street shops. But soon he's going to quit his job and go back (as a trifle tardy, "I'm here to learn, I'm here to work") to the shop. But he admits that it's the presidency of the road that he's after.

"I'll take that job maybe next year, maybe not until I'm through college," he says. "But that's what I'm after."

That remark depicts the different attitudes of the two brothers.

ON CONSTRUCTION CREW
Just now, the construction crew on the Klamath Falls extension, in Oregon, before that he was timekeeper for a section gang in the iron range region of Minnesota, working for $2.25 a day with bunk and board thrown in. And, for a while, he worked in the shops where Courtland is now working, helping classify scrap iron and inventorying nails and gaskets, lamps and wicks, gauges and pistons and what-not.

Louis keeps the very modest wage that he draws; Courtland, on the other hand, is here to learn, in short order, how to be president of the road," says Courtland. "I'm not out to learn how to get $2 a day."

But Louis is more thrifty; he not only keeps his wages, but carries his lunch to work with him just like any other member of the crew. Courtland always eats at restaurants. Courtland, however, points out that their father, Louis Hill, Sr., gets no salary for his services as chairman of the board of the Great Northern.

LOOKS LIKE WORKER
Oddly enough, it is Courtland who looks the part of the grimy laborer man more than Louis. Courtland wears stained and streaked overalls, hobnailed boots and smilingly tells of pleas from his family to "try, please, to get your face clean."

Louis is more careful with his dress and is more inclined to look like the son of the chairman of the board. Louis, however, insists that it probably will be two years before he is ready for a white-collar job.

"Louis is a good kid and he means well," says Courtland. "But he's so slow going about this thing. Now me—my white teeth gleam as a smile wrinkles his grimy face—"I am high and that's where I'm going to strike; right for the chair behind a frosted glass door marked 'president.' Then I'll come down, if I need to know more about the business."

"But if Louis and I meet on the way, with him heading up, I'll turn around and go back with him, and beat him back, too."

Louis didn't overlook his education in his effort to start at the bottom and work up. He graduated from Yale, studied a year at Oxford and spent another year traveling around in Europe. But he's learning faster now than Courtland is—as Courtland is willing to admit.

WON'T GO ON NAME
Neither boy is willing to trade on the family name—the name that means so much in the northwest, where pictures of James J. Hill hang on the walls of many farm homes just as pictures of Lincoln or Washington do elsewhere. The family is proud of them, too; Louis W. Hill, Sr., beams down benignly from his Olympian heights in the railroad's general offices, and commends the industry and ambition of his sons.

And when they're not arguing about which is the better fitted to grace the president's chair, the boys have a good deal of admiration for each other, too.

HARVING ZUELL

JACK LOCKWILL AT SUMMER CAMP

Lockwill, struggling to his feet, saw Saunders holding the head of the kicking Indian beneath the water. "He's killing Jim!" cried Twin Rose. Her cry seemed to bring Jack's strength back into his body. He leaped at Buke and yanked him backward, breaking his hold on Hatchet's neck. Tom Longpine came forth from the shadows of the woods. "Take your cousin away!" said Jack.

"No need of it," said Longpine. "He's going as fast as he can already." Looking round, Jack saw Hatchet plunge into a thicket. Then he released Saunders. "Come, Rose," said the Indian girl's brother grimly. "And goodbye, White Lightning!" She looked at Jack, held both hands over her heart, then turned and ran.

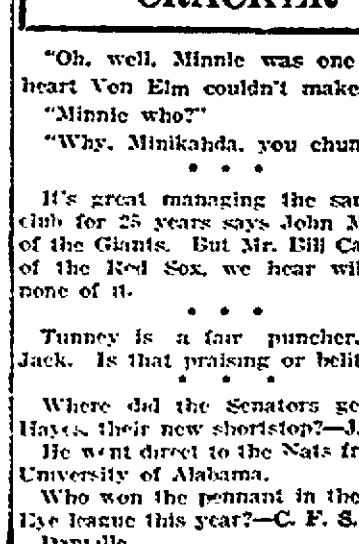

Lockwill stood still, looking toward the spot where she had vanished. "Some girl, if she is a redskin!" admitted Saunders. Longpine had disappeared also. "You saved my life, Buke," said Jack. "No credit to me," declared Saunders. "I tried to fix the Indian." "Still I can't forget that I owe you my life," returned Jack, taking his arm. "Let's go back to camp, old scout." DESCRIBES EFFORTS
FOR "DRY" MOVEMENTNoted Prohibitionist Details
Successes on Lecture Tour
Abroad

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London.—The auditorium of the Methodist church was crowded at the community mass meeting service Sunday morning when "the citizen of the world," William E. "Pussyfoot" Johnson of Colorado, spoke on his recent tour of Europe as a representative of the World League Against Alcoholism.

Mr. Johnson was preceded in his address by his traveling companion, A. J. Finch, superintendent of the World League, in the state of Colorado. Mr. Finch spoke briefly of the prohibition movement in the United States and impressed the importance of the influence of the home and the church in this movement. The next five years will determine what prohibition will be in the United States," stated Mr. Finch. "This movement is one of the greatest organized efforts the world has ever seen." The effect of prohibition was greatly manifested in the slow payment of the French war debt to the United States, as the great financial depression following the war was largely influenced by the closing of the foreign liquor market, as a result of the movement in this country. "Our money, our morals, our church and our progress is vitally effected by prohibition," Mr. Finch said. He pointed out that statistics show that from 80 to 90 per cent of the liquor traffic is carried on by aliens in this country and he urged a strong support of the prohibition movement in every way in order to get behind this alien element, for, he stated, the loss of this movement would doubtless mean the biggest financial panic in history.

TRACES HISTORY OF MOVE
Mr. Johnson gave a brief survey of attempts to regulate the evils of drink as far back as the days of Babylon. He showed how, for the last 4,000 years, lawmakers have tried in vain to enact laws that would regulate the evils of drink, but all efforts have been in vain. "Therefore," emphasized the speaker, "we must get rid of the resulting evils."

Speaking of his experiences abroad, Mr. Johnson said that while in Bulgaria, where, as the result of his lectures, a large majority of the drink shops were closed in a very short time, he was invited to appear at the court of the king. He presented the reform movement in America to his audience and a prohibition assembly was immediately formed, headed by two members of the royal family. Within a comparatively short time Egypt became a dry country with the exception of the European sections in the four largest cities in that country. The speaker then pictured his tour through India, a country made up of over 700,000 villages. He traveled 7,000 miles through this country and gave over 200 addresses to over 1,500,000 people. He told of the days and nights of continual celebration and ceremony in Calcutta and of the presence of 600 uniformed soldiers during the entire celebration. There were 65,000 outcasts who were degraded by drink, scattered through this country the speaker found. They were eager listeners to his story of America and how she tore loose from the depression of drink.

Mr. Johnson described his return to this country after his great tour. He has a greater faith in the destiny of our country and its loyalty to the prohibition cause, he said. "The time is coming," the speaker declared, "when the slave of the drink seller will be a thing of the past, and every child will have an equal chance in life. When this time does come, the very word 'America' will have a richer meaning and the stars of our flag will shine the brighter for 'triumphant democracy.'"

NEGRO SINGERS TO APPEAR AT CHURCHNegro Students of Piney
Woods School to Give Concert at New London

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London.—The Methodist church will open its doors to the Cotton Blossom Singers of the Piney Woods Country Life school of Piney Woods, Miss. Thursday evening, Sept. 29. This school was organized under a cedar tree in 1909 by the present principal, Laurence C. Jones, "with faith, honesty, and energy as its entire capital stock." The first gift to this school was 40 acres of land and $50, which was donated by Edward Nelson of that community. The school is now free from debt and owns 1,547 acres, 12 buildings. It has 300 students and a faculty of 18 teachers. It is well equipped to teach printing, broom-making, blacksmithing, carpenter work, tailoring, weaving, wheel-wrighting, basket-making and millinery. The property is assessed at $150,000. The school is in operation during the entire year and is open to students who must work their way. During their attendance they may earn a small sum, and their clothing. The school is supported entirely by voluntary subscription from churches and individuals.

The Cotton Blossom singers make annual tours similar to those of college glee clubs.
